EQT REC Center

uring it's almost two years as part of the Waynesburg community, the 60,000-square-foot REC Center is a source of pride for Greene County. The facilities are home to quality, technologically advanced fitness equipment and programming that provides recreational activities and sports for all ages; they offer something for everyone. The state-of-the-art equipment and program draw members not just from Greene County but from the surrounding counties as well.

The amenities at the REC Center are hard to beat. It boasts a basketball court with bleachers, with a climbing wall off to one side. The court is a perfect place to get your pickleball fix, with time reserved for pickleball each week, as well as clinics and tournaments held sporadically. Opposite of the basketball court is a synthetic turf indoor soccer field with batting and pitching tunnels that can be lowered onto the field with an elevated walking track. On the second level a fully equipped fitness floor can be found overlooking both the field and the court. Also upstairs is a game room with air hockey and pool tables.

Community rooms and party rooms are available to rent for special occasions; in addition to these rooms, other areas can be rented - what better spot for an indoor bounce house than the turf soccer field? The REC Center can accommodate business events, birthday parties, or bridal and baby showers.

Group exercise classes are available throughout the day, with something available for every skill level. There are also periodic clinics for sports such as golf, wrestling, basketball and more held throughout the year. Other events, like Kids Night Out, Cookies with Santa, or vendor fairs provide variety to the packed schedule.

"The EQT Rec Center is growing unique and exciting programs every day. Our team is heavily invested in the success of the facility and providing Greene County residents with fun, engaging, and healthy activities," says Meghan Bedilion, general manager. "We love what we do every day and our members make the EQT Rec Center the best place to work!"

The EQT REC Center will again be offering a "Fun After School" program for all Greene County students during the school year. The program is held daily on school days from 3:30 to 6pm and children will enjoy a nutritious snack, receive academic support, and engage in physical activities.

Five years ago, the Burgesses opened The Washington Winery at the corner of Main & Maiden Streets. The Washington Winery is an urban winery which imports their grapes from California. High quality, hand-selected California grapes are used to craft their varietals, which include Cabernet, Zinfandel, Chardonnay, Riesling, plus their signature blends. To complement the varietals, they also offer an array of light, sweet fruit wines. This innovative, urban winery serves their wines on tap. -I Love this Place-----

BRISTORIA, PA by Colleen Nelson

Across from the corner of Whitehorn Run and Bristoria Road sits the Bristoria Baptist Church.

t's hard to think about loving a place that you drive through - don't blink, you'll miss it! - but over the years I've built a relationship with the forgotten village of Bristoria as I continue to watch it go through its changes. Back in the 1970s, my friends and I cruised the old Vee Dub van through the cluster of mostly old houses, past what used to be a general store run by auctioneer Bud Behm's dad, on our way to get fresh milk from the Chess farm over by Ryerson Station State Park. Bristoria sits along the edge of the Dunkard branch of Wheeling Creek and one day I fell in love with a fine old tree by the bank, while doing weekly water testing behind the abandoned store. I was a volunteer for the Isaac Walton League, building a data base of the chemical composition of the water - before the fact - that can be compared to how the water reads after Marcellus drilling commenced on the hills above this watershed. In between were years of driving through Bristoria on my way to the state park downstream, to swim, hike and help organize its fall Arts in the Park Festival - with music, blacksmithing, apple butter making, reenactors, crafters, and a lake to fish and paddle in. (Fishing and paddling Duke Lake ended in 2005 when undermining damaged the dam and the lake was drained, but the fall festival is still a happening thing.)

- HANRA 12-

There is a small house on the left beside Mary and Fred Whipkey's place where Glen and Arliegh Durbin lived, maternal grandparents of my good friend Judith Fitch. Her own home on Macedonia Road bought in the 1980s sits upstream beside an unnamed tributary that joins others to become the Dunkard branch flowing through Bristoria, on its way to Wheeling and the Ohio River. Living this close to the land, you can feel the connection that water offered the first settlers as they built their mills on big streams that would eventually see houses and general stores and later, what money can buy as the gas and oil boom struck in the 1890s. Standard Oil began sending in their proxies early on, to buy gas and oil rights from landowners. Life would never be the same for this pioneer holdout land. Villages such as Bristoria, Long Run and Ryerson Station are connected by roads that climb hills to find valleys where streams confluence and pioneers settled. Sawing wood and grinding grain was the order of the day for those who raised their crops and livestock here, then headed up the road to Jacksonville then down the hill to Waynesburg to market their wares, before the Civil War and beyond.

In the beginning, Bristoria was called Kincaid's Mill but by 1869 the village was large enough to warrant its own post office. The name Bristoria as a postal destination was most likely a nod to the many Bristors who lived around Wind Ridge.

A trek through G. Wayne Smith's Greene County History books offers a fascinating view of the years after Standard Oil came to town. Some families struck it rich selling their leasing rights and getting royalties when the wells came in, others found good work building the pipelines and drilling while minding the farm.

In the chapter called "Vacations" Smith reports in 1886 James Hughes and family of Bristoria "went to the Pacific by train and had a four-month extended stay" with a brother in California who, with his sons, was operating a large wheat farm.

The Bristoria extraction field had already been identified by the scientific standards of the day and the world was ready for what lay beneath this ancient land.

The official startup date for the oil boom in the western reaches is 1897, keeping good time with the fact that between 1894 and 1900 Standard Oil owned rights to a whopping 31 percent of all the acreage in the county. Add to that the more pertinent fact that drillers hit pay dirt on the Bristoria field that same year. Boom!

When the trapped oils and gases of the Emma Woods on Long Run Road hit the air in 1897, she produced "90,000 barrels since March" the newspapers shouted. Folks who lived on Long Run shrugged and grinned and went home to eat. "When Emma came in, there was an oil slick clear to Wheeling."

The "Mason Scott farm at Bristoria" suddenly had 12 more wells.

Bristoria was now a toddling town, with a community building that doubled for everything from a hall for the Grange and the Knights of Pythias to a place where Presbyterians gathered to pray before building the Wheeling Valley Presbyterian Church in 1914. By then Bristoria had a post office, a one-room school, dry goods and grocery store, blacksmith shop and a grist and saw mill. Glen Durbin had a garage, Mr. Wendall kept a hotel and William Hughes had "an eating place back of the mill." Charles Harrison and James Parry had their blacksmith shop beside the mill and in 1881 the firm of Millikin and Supler was established. Things were looking good for landowners and everyone who could do the job had one. No one was much complaining.

Which is true of the folks that I've gotten to know in Bristoria. No one complains much. When CONSOL Energy came to long wall mine they discovered that the block of coal Bristoria was sitting on had never been bought - and the remaining landowners were happy to call Bristoria their hood.

Some families sold, pulled up stakes and moved. Others sold, stayed and fixed their places up. The now-corporate owned homes had their windows boarded up and put up for sale. Lately, new owners have been moving in.

Matt Cumberledge, director of the Greene County Historical Society, with the communion table and chairs from Claylick Church.

A few years ago, Marcellus pipeline building took a look at the geography and found Bristoria in its sights. This was about the time the effects of undermining changed the water flow coming out of the big hill that holds up a couple of ridges. The ridge began to move and so did Bristoria Road. Road crews and detours became part of the landscape and getting to Ryerson became quite an adventure.

These days, Bristoria has a rough edged but hopeful new look. The road is still wobbly and corporate entities are working with landowners to divert disturbed water veins that are heading to the creek by way of their back yards. New folks are moving in because housing prices are low. Locals know that the land here is good for animals and families that can live off the land like their great grandparents did - with a little help from paychecks from off-the-farm jobs that are available if you know where to look.

I have to laugh, reading Smith's micro film-found newspaper article reporting that in February of 1893 William Hughes of Bristoria and Frank V. Iams of Waynesburg "announced they were initiating a creamery and cheese manufactory" at Bristoria to build a plant."

I've never seen any trace of that plant - I can't even find the old mill - but I think it's fitting that nine-year old 4-H'er Neil Pettit, along with his mom and dad and three siblings are settling in on land that Larry's great grandpa Charlie Brown once owned and plan to build a goat milk dairy to make cheese, yogurt, ice cream, fudge and soap. What goes around comes around! I can hardly wait!

ran across this great old photo of Bristoria Presbyterian Church and I'm sure some are bound to remember when it looked like this. Like many buildings in Bristoria, the ridge above crowds the road, leaving little room for building above the flood plain of the Dunkard fork of Wheeling Creek. There's little bottomland here but a village grew up anyway because this is where Whitethorn Run adds its waters to Wheeling Creek; this is where Kincaid built his mill.

Reverend Fred Cochran and other church historians tell us that the idea for a church in Bristoria began "about 1873" when the Presbyterians who worshiped in the Long Run Church of God along with Methodists, decided to build a church that they would call Wheeling Creek Valley Church. The congregation owned partial interest in the Long Run Church building, but when that interest was sold "the congregation held Sunday School in the building by the bridge across the road from the general store" in Bristoria.

There was agitation for a real church in town for the next thirty some years which peaked on September 6, 1911 when 25 people braved a downpour to get to Graysville's sister church and organize the Wheeling Creek Presbyterian Church. They brought with them their petition that had been presented to the Washington Presbytery in West Alexander and been favorably received. After due consideration, Bristoria's ruling elders were elected, ordained and installed and the congregation met at the public house in town until January 4, 1914 when the new church opened its doors.

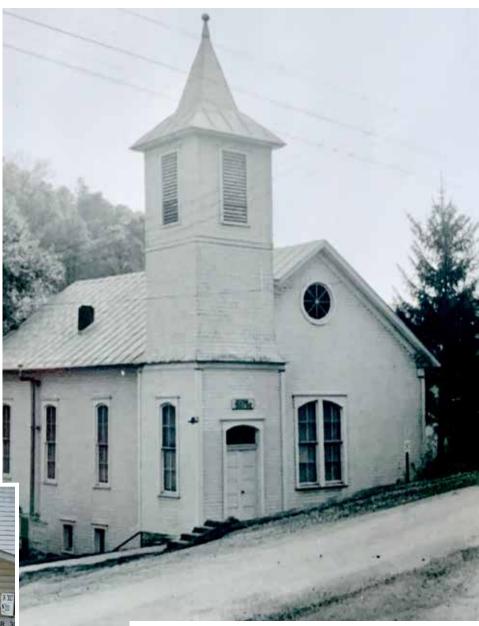

The Presbyterians of Bristoria, Wind Ridge and Clay Lick churches split the cost of hiring a pastor and a new charge was born.

Another old record notes that on October 10, 1939 "the Bristoria Church joined with the Wind Ridge and Graysville Presbyterian churches to call the Reverend J. Nelson Jackaway as minister." Which matches up with the almost two years that Clay Lick was closed due to "inactivity and bad weather."

And there the story trail grows cold.

Sometime down the road, the Presbyterian Church in Bristoria took on a new mission. In time its new mission would take down the steeple and add an addition with a steeple of its own. The sign now says Bristoria Baptist Church but there is no number to call, so I'll leave off here. Still, it's heartening to know that this old church has found a new life and by the looks of the restorations and additions and the size of

The Brisoria Presbyterian Church is now the Bristoria Baptist Church.

SHINING HE LIGHT

B ill and Vivian Eakin of Waynesburg were packing things up and getting ready for their move to Washington to be closer to the kids when Tom Waters and I came knocking with their Monday Meals on Wheels lunch. We had become good friends over these deliveries available to those who have trouble preparing a meal and Vivian was always there with a smile to pay for this assistance to their living at home. But now she was sorting out what to take to their new digs and she told me she had some things that needed a perfect new home.

"I have the communion table and chairs from the Claylick Church and I don't have room for them at my new place," she tells me. "Do you think the museum would want them?" I gave director Matt Cumberledge a call then and there. Heck yeah – they'll come get it!

I remember seeing that little white church on the hill when taking the shortcut from Bristoria Road to Graysville by way of Claylick back in the day. Vivian tells me the church plagued by bees and the building was dismantled. The building was dismantled sometime in the 1980s; that's when she got permission to save the communion set. Her love for it came from attending services there in the 1930s when she spent summers with her Knight relatives near Holbrook. Now the sacraments she saved have their special place at the Greene County Historical Society Museum.

Vivian also donated a painting done by her brother William L. Knight's who is buried in the cemetery that now stands alone on its knoll above Claylick Road, sheltered by a massive oak tree. You can hike up and enjoy the solitude of hallowed ground. I read the stones and found a corner plot of Scotts, whose sons mustered out with Company A 140th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry. Over in another corner I found M. E. Pettit who was a private with the 65th Infantry in World War I.

William L. Knight painting is a photographic capture of the church that is no more. Look closely and you'll see he and Vivian standing beside a doorway, getting ready to say goodbye.

The history of Claylick Church can be found at Cornerstone Genealogical Society, filled with family names from the early days, when the faithful met in a log cabin on Edmund Scott's farm before the church was built. "Prior to 1874, there was no organized church in Claylick valley." Lay pastors from the community conBy Colleen Nelson ducted services and the occasional ordained minister would come to preach and give communion. Later the faithful would meet at the new school building on the Johnson farm, "with two denominations represented; the Methodist Protestant and the Cumberland Presbyterian." When Claylick Church was finally built on land donated by Mathias Scott, the congregations agreed to "occupy the house every alternated Sabbath, except during the progress of a revival" and share the upkeep. Each congregation chose their own trustee and a third was chosen jointly.

Then they rolled up their collective sleeves and built their church. First services were held on October 1, 1874, with Reverend Phillip Axtell serving the Presbyterians, and the Methodists served by Reverend J. B. Mc-Cormick.

Since I started out writing about Bristoria, just over the hill from Claylick, I was happy to learn that when the Presbyterians of Bristoria built their church in 1914 it became third in the charge shared by Claylick Church and Harmony Presbyterian Church in Wind Ridge.

The history gathered for the 90th anniversary celebration in 1964 tells us that the church was closed only once in 90 years and that was the winter of 1937 "due to inactivity and bad weather." It would not reopen until the first Sunday in April, 1939.

In 1963 there was a "concerted effort to repair and redecorate the church." An electric heating system was installed, plaster got repaired, ceiling and walls were insulated, new wallpaper was hung and a new worship center was put in.

And there the paper trail ends. If anyone remembers when the last sermon was read, let the Greene County Historical Society know. Matt can add it to the story of a little country church that lives on in the communion table and chairs and William L. Knight's beautiful painting.

Art Blast on the Mon

he 14th annual Art Blast on the Mon will be presented again Labor Day weekend, Saturday, August 31st at the Ice Plant Pavilion and grounds in Greensboro, Pennsylvania. The event runs from 10 am - 5pm.

This event is championed by the Nathanael Greene Community Development Corporation and is a celebration of music and art for all ages. Truly one of the more unique and artsy festivals in our area, visitors enjoy many interactive programs, demonstrations and entertainment that aren't as common at other local fairs and festivals.

Much of Art Blast is hands-on, for both children and adults, and you get to actually experience the fun and creativity of different art forms. At Art Blast, you don't just watch the potter spinning the clay, you get to put your hands on and feel the joy of creating and sculpting yourself. Several artists will be there with interactive demos on techniques in pottery and ceramics, fabric mosaic, leather jewelry items, weaving and spinning, painting and other disciplines. Appearing again this year is special guest, Miss Teacup with her special face painting techniques.

The live music at Art Blast is one of the festival's best attractions and adds to the lively, upbeat feeling most of the day. The musical entertainment this year includes the very well liked Vibrations, Students of LPS Guitar Tyler Jeffries and Beth Cree, Trenton Antill, Lexie VanDyne and Coco Pahanish.

Something for which Art Blast on the Mon has become famous for is the art exhibit from students of art classes of Greene County school districts. Each district that participates will receive a cash award.

You will also find a host of artisans and craft people with their wares on sale, and a variety of delicious food vendors available all day. Some of the vendors include: Plum Run Winery, Color Street, Ryan Mayfield's art, Beth Beads (handmade jewelry), and Polly Johnson (art, soap, essential oils). Cornerstone Care will have their mobile unit on site.

There is no admission to the Art Blast on the Mon, all this fabulous entertainment and fun is completely FREE. This is possible only because of the generous support of our sponsors.

Funding for this project is provided in part by the Fund for Arts and Culture, the Nancy Davis Fund of the Community Foundation of Greene County and Greene County Tourism Promotion Agency.

Spend the evening enjoying entertainment, vendors, and food on the lush grounds of the Greene County Historical Society Museum! The event is on September 21st from 5pm to dark. Dress in your coolest steam punk gear!

50's Fest & Car Cruise

eptember 14, 2019 downtown Waynesburg welcomes back for the 18th year What has become one of the most popular car cruises in southwestern Pennsylvania. The 50's Fest & Car Cruise, presented by Waynesburg Prosperous and Beautiful, Inc., typically draws 150+ classic vehicles to downtown, including a wide assortment of hot rods, street rods, rat rods, and other classic cars, trucks and motorcycles.

It's a great day of family fun, because 50's Fest & Car Cruise is so much more than a typical car show. The festival also offers retro fun with dance contests, bubblegum blowing and Hula Hoop contests and oldies music broadcast live all day by Sponsor WANB Radio's "Greene County Greaser" aka Doug Wilson. There are also plentiful door prizes and unique shopping and specials from many downtown merchants and restaurants. Support is offered by several local sponsors who are featured on the back of the festival's annual collectible T-shirt. The hand drawn t-shirt art is created each year by local artist Colleen Nelson and usually features an actual classic vehicle belonging to a cruise participant. This year's shirt features Bill Gallentine's 1966

Pontiac GTO. On the t-shirt, the car will be depicted in front of the Carmichaels Covered Bridge in Carmichaels. "It's always fun to tie in some local landmark with the vehicle on the t-shirt, and Colleen Nelson has a way of really bringing the personality of both the site and the vehicle alive. Our 50s Fest t-shirts are highly collectible, they will go on sale at the 50s Fest at 10am for just $12, don't miss getting yours," advises Shelly Brown, Promotions Committee Chairperson for Waynesburg Prosperous & Beautiful, who helps organize the 50s Fest event with co-chair Doug Wilson and their committee of local gear heads, grumpy old men and car collectors.

50s Fest tradition also offers a collectible magnetic dash plaque free to all participants and for sale to spectators as long as they last. "The generous support we receive from the downtown merchants and local businesses is what enables us to make this a free event for spectators and participants. There are no admission fees or registration fees for the 50's Fest & Car Cruise in down town Waynesburg. Make your plans now to be there, or be square," warns Shelly.

Rest Easy in Downtown Waynesburg

by Jessica Price

n a hot July day, a group of teenage boys could be seen up and down High Street in Waynesburg: outside of the borough police station, across the street from Don Patron's and near Fischer's Antiques. They were wearing reflective vests and carrying a variety of tools. The boys were members and family members of Boy Scout Troop 1280, led by Paul Adams. The group was working on Paul's final Eagle Scout project - installing benches for the community to enjoy.

Paul is a 16-year-old teenager from Sycamore and a member of Boy Scout Troop 1280. The Boy Scouts of America is one of the largest youth organizations in the United States. Their goal is to train youth in responsible citizenship, character development, and self- reliance through outdoor activities, educational programs, and partnerships with community organizations.

As an Eagle Scout, Paul is required to plan, develop, and give leadership to others in a service project that is helpful to his community. The project must benefit an institution other than Boy Scouts. Scouts are encouraged to think of an idea that would really assist with a need in the community. The requirements for Eagle Scout projects are broad; the scout can complete almost any project that they come up with, as long as it helps the community. Once the Scout has an idea, a written proposal needs to be approved by the benefitting organization, as well as the unit leader.

Paul came up with his idea in December, inspired by his family's experience at the annual Christmas parade. His family forgot to bring chairs and had to stand on the sidewalk to view the lengthy parade. His mother mentioned to him that with all of the parades and events on High Street there should be seating available. This gave Paul the idea to add benches, and he got to work. He worked with the borough to get permission, attending a meeting in January.

Next, he negotiated a price with Lowes - $400 dollars a bench. To fund the project, Paul sought out sponsorships from First Federal Bank, the Waynesburg VFW Post, Fischer Antiques, and Taylor Miller of Waynesburg. His goal was to have them completely installed by Rain Day, when his troop would be camping out all night serving as rain watchers.

On July 21, just eight days before Rain Day, with temperatures reaching 91 degrees, Paul and his fellow troop members got to work. They installed each bench along High Street, including a plaque on each one recognizing the troop and their sponsors. Paul feels very proud of his work on this project. He explains, "When I ride on the bus to go home, I get to see every single one of them. During Rain Day and other events, I'll get to sit down on one of them and say, 'I built this.' I'll have the satisfaction of knowing I put a lasting mark on this community."

Paul Adams, friends, family, and members of Troop 1280 install community benches along High Street before Rain Day.

CORNER CUPBOARD'S COMMUNITY GARDEN

Corner Cupboard Food Bank has really outdone itself! A few years ago they began construction on a project that has become a beautiful, bountiful community garden and it is growing so much more than just vegetables!

Candace Tustin Webster, Director of the Corner Cupboard Food Bank located on Rolling Meadows Rd., Waynesburg, Pa, proudly speaks of this project and the many groups and organizations that have literally dug in, gotten their hands dirty, and helped this project become a valuable resource to the Food Bank and ultimately the community. The idea originated when Kelley Hardie, Director of the Center for Service Leadership and Bonner Scholars Program at Waynesburg University was visiting Tustin at the Food Bank to discuss projects that students volunteering during the annual Waynesburg University Day of Service could work on. Candace mentioned to Kelley that she had been reading about community gardens and thought that it would be wonderful to start a garden at the food bank and hoped to do so. The two began collaborating on how to make best use of the area surrounding the building. Bonner Scholar students from W.U., along with volunteers from the Greene County Community Service Department and several local businesses helped to construct, and prepare raised beds. Through the years many community organizations have helped support the Community Garden project and therefore the Corner Cupboard Food Bank, such as Blue Prints, the Waynesburg FFA, the Rotary Club of Waynesburg, and First Federal Savings and Loan of Greene County.

"Through the years we have had lots of individuals, businesses and organizations interested in the garden and I am grateful. I really hope that the Community Garden project would serve as an inspiration and encourage the community to come together. And it has done just that. In particular, Darlene Vukmanic, her father Clyde Shaffer have been working so hard to keep our garden up. They come to work in the garden at least once a week and donate their time and expertise. As much as I appreciate their help, I also love that they bring their entire family to work together, the grandkids are being taught very valuable lessons. THAT is what the garden project is about."

Corner Cupboard Food Bank is a non-profit charitable organization. Donations and volunteers are the heart and soul of the food bank and community support keeps the mission going. The Community Garden project is living proof of a community working together with carefully managed resources. Children from the Blue Prints Head Start programs in Greene County grew starter plants from seed in their class rooms as part of a learning exercise and now those plants are yielding vegetables and helping to feed their community. Wayne Lumber was directly involved in the design and initial construction of the raised garden beds and organizations and businesses such as Battle 4 Warriors and Waynesburg Milling brought in truckloads of soil. Any produce that goes bad and is put in the handmade compost bin in the garden and later used as garden fertilizer. It is a learning experience for everyone involved.

The Community Garden not only increases the amount of fresh fruits and vegetables to its 11 pantry sites across Greene County, it helps raise money for the food bank. The Food Bank is offering the opportunity for businesses to sponsor a garden bed, with their name and logo displayed on the raised bed. The Greene County Rotary club sponsored an entire bed but individuals may also purchase a portion of a bed as well.

This living project is a true example of how people can accomplish amazing things when they work with their heart and their hands. FMI, contact Candace Tustin at 724-627-9784, CornerCupboard.org or visit their Faacebook photos.

Tourism provides an economic boost that helps businesses and residents in the county. It directly impacts hotels, restaurants, gas stations, retail businesses, and events. The direct impact provides a trickledown effect by impacting all local businesses from the wages of the employees directly impacted by tourism. Visitors to Greene County spent $78.5 million in 2017.

Events are our primary form of enticement for visitors. Events like the High Point

National or Covered Bridge Festival bring large crowds to Greene County, but we also have visitors that explore the Greene County Historical Museum, the Warrior Trail, or W.A. Young & Sons Foundry & Machine Shop. Over 53 percent of the attendees in 2018 represented eight countries, 42 states, and 54 Pennsylvania counties.

We attract visitors from all over the world through a variety of advertising campaigns. Big or small, we use different mediums, like print, radio, direct mail, distribution centers, website, and social media. In 2018, we acquired time on the Good Morning America billboard in New York City's Time Square over Labor Day Weekend.

This September, we move our advertising campaign north to Toronto Canada's Time Square - Dundas Square. This will be the first time Greene County will be on a digital billboard in Canada. The Canadian market is appealing to Greene County, because a large portion of I-79 travelers are Canadian residents relocating for the winter weather.

This structure was built in 1926 by Donald Stewart, a locally known blacksmith and carpenter. Upon walking through the tiny, arching-doorways, one can't help but feel like they become part of a fairy tale. It houses a certain warmth you do not find at most medical facilities and within the walls are many curiosities including original pieces of art, antiques and a very special grandfather clock that is said to be the home of the Tooth Fairy herself.

Dr. Ingrid Toothman has had a passion for dentistry from an early age. She began her career early in life, working beside her father in his dental lab in Pittsburgh. Upon graduating from The University of Pittsburgh Dental School in 1982, Dr. Toothman relocated to Greene County where she was assigned to the Bobtown Community Health Center until opening her own practice in 1984.

Dr. Toothman practices general dentistry, which includes di-

Phylicia Kesterson, funeral director with the Kesterson-Rush Funeral Home in Rogersville, had heard about young Tavion's heartbreaking diagnosis. Although she didn't know the family, she, like many of us, followed his journey. When Tavion lost his battle with DIPG, a very rare brain tumor, his family chose Kesterson-Rush Funeral Home.

When Phylicia found out they were to handle the arrangements for Tavion's funeral, she decicded to try and personalize the funeral as much as possible. After Phylicia presented her idea, Tavion's family loved Phylicia's idea of paying tribute to Tavion's love of Batman.

A Batman theme was used throughout the arrangements. A custom-made Batman casket was made and delivered within two days and a personalized lid panel was created. The Kesterson-Rush staff wore Batman ties. The pallbearers wore Batman t-shirts, as did everyone that attended the funeral. A life size Batman balloon was placed by the casket. A plaqueof Tavion was created for the Batmobile. Batman himself called from his Batcave during the funeral to say a few words about Tavion. "I love it when families decide to personalize the funeral," said Phylicia. "It really seems to help with the grieving process."

The process of planning a funeral, especially for a child, is stressful and can be difficult because of all of the decisions that need to be made. Personalization pays tribute to your loved ones and allows our staff to go the extra distance to allow families to grieve properly.

Personalization is only limited by the imagination. The funeral home has created tribute blankets, custom candles, portraits, jewelry, engraved items, and personalized printing services, such as cards and pamphlets, for their clients. They've used firetrucks, tractors pulling wagons, and horse drawn carriages to carry the deceased to their final resting place. "If you can imagine it, we can make it happen," Phylicia said. "We're here to provide the community options and let them know what's available. Our staff's knowledge and creativity make us capapble of doing anything you can think of. That's what makes us different."

Tavion and his family: his parents, Nathaniel "Sonny" Terry and Desiree Burns and his little brother.

In Loving Memory of Tavion Nasir Terry April 22, 2010 - April 22, 2017

You truly were a Hero. You touched each and every one of us.

Redevelopment Authority of the County of Greene

he Redevelopment Authority of the County of Greene works "to assist the Greene County community with economic development, community revitalization, affordable housing initiatives, and home ownership opportunities."

In addition to helping homeowners take the jump into home ownership, RACG also works to stabilize blighted areas within local communities. A recent concentration of their efforts has seen them spending time working with the community of Nemacolin, thanks to a grant they received last year. They've begun the process of buying up abandoned and neglected homes and currently have 5 singlefamily homes to rehabilitate, most purchased through judicial sales with oil and gas impact fees. Once the homes have been fully rehabilitated, they are available for purchase through RACG's Homebuyer Assistance Program (land contract). The homes that were beyond repair were torn down.

"When we work on rehabbing homes, we don't just put a band-aid on the problems," says Dave Calvario, RACG Executive Director. "Our goal is to have them ready for the homeowner and be maintenance free for about eight to twelve years."

Two of the houses in Nemacolin that RACG has acquired to rehab.

To enter into a land contract, a payment plan is set up with RACG based on the resident's income. RACG will receive the down payment and mortgage payments (included principal, 5% interest, insurance, and taxes) for the next 18-24 months, until the residents improve their credit enough to qualify for a traditional mortgage. During the time the resident has a land contract with RACG, they meet quarterly with Blueprints for credit counseling sessions.

"We want to stabilize these coal patch communities and stop the skidding," Dave says in reference to the blighted communities in Greene. "It's overwhelming at times trying to find where to start."

RACG has also assisted homeowners with no-interest loans for home repair. They've helped various citizens in Nemacolin with new roofs, wiring, and more. These funds are only available for residents on the old side of Nemacolin at this time.

FMI, contact RACG at 724-852-5306 or stop by their office at 49 South Washington St., Waynesburg.

McCracken Pharmacy

riginally established in 1961 by Jack Mc-Cracken, this local drug store has progressed in all the right ways over the years, changing where change was needed while keeping personal service a tradition; very much in keeping with the slogan, "Yesterday's Service, Today's Technology."

Long-time pharmacist, Scott Adamson, who began his relationship with McCracken when he served an internship in 1992, purchased the pharmacy in 2013, when Jeff McCracken retired. With the same philosophy of balanced progression and tradition, Scott has continued the work of keeping McCracken Pharmacy at the forefront of technology and modern convenience while maintaining comfort and personal attention to every customer.

The last couple years have brought many easy-to-see changes as McCracken Pharmacy underwent a total re-branding, introducing a new logo design, color scheme and complete remodeling of the building's interior and exterior. Located at the gateway to downtown Waynesburg, the remodeling project enhanced both the McCracken building and the neighborhood around it. With carefully chosen colors and style that represent McCracken's unique brand of "Yesterday's Service, Today's Technology" the look certainly says it all. Scott is quick to point out, however, that the longevity and most valuable asset to McCracken Pharmacy is what you find inside the building – the people. "We've been fortunate to be able to maintain a relatively large staff, and to keep a high caliber of people who are consistent and compassionate with our customers, I'm proud to work with the people here," Scott emphasizes. There are four pharmacists on staff, along with 8 additional techs and support personnel serving McCracken's customers. That's how they continue to provide "Yesterday's Service" you can't find anywhere else.

As for "Today's Technology," McCracken Pharmacy has always been a leader in the latest tools and expertise to deliver accuracy and efficiency in filling prescriptions and serving all needs of customers. That never changes. Just as McCracken was among the very first pharmacies to even use computer technology back in the 1960s, and later the most innovative dispensing systems, our local pharmacy today is helping to pioneer new methods of packaging designed to facilitate and improve accuracy in daily dosing of medications. "We offer innovative blister and strip packaging systems that clearly label and separate medicines for daily doses and help patients and caregivers stay informed and in control," Scott explains. Particularly useful for those who take multiple doses and meds, this new system is easy to follow and much appreciated by customers. Just one more example of how our iconic "corner drug store" with all the charm of Yesterday's Service is still a leader in Today's Technology.

Jugger's Carpet & Upholstery ⁱⁿGreene Cleaning

S lugger Humble grew up in the business of floor covering, working in his father's carpet store warehouse as a teenager. Then came carpet cleaning and several years as a skilled professional installer before Slugger took the plunge and opened his own business. It was 25 years ago that "The Man in the Red Van" became a familiar site around Waynesburg and throughout the county.

From the beginning, Slugger was motivated to make it happen. "It started with the carpet cleaning," he recalls, "I called all my friends... everyone I knew...to book jobs. I had to; I'd just bought a new house two weeks before I quit my job." His fortitude - and a lot of hard work - paid off. By the end of his first year Slugger's Carpet had not only become the first name in carpet cleaning, but sales as well. The only service of its kind in the area, "The Man in the Red Van" carried hundreds of floor covering samples to homes all over the county where customers made their choices in the very room where the carpet, vinyl, hardwood or tile would be installed. Together with his wife, Darlene, Slugger grew this mobile business over the next ten years to impressive proportions.

"We'd lay down protective barriers and cut carpet right out in our driveway, or if it was raining, we'd take it up to the fair grounds and cut under the grandstand,"Slugger remembers with a chuckle. Inevitably, the popularity and success of Slugger's Carpet demanded more. They leased a building on Oak View Drive with great visibility to traffic (right across Rt. 21 from the Greene County Fairgrounds, ironically) and converted it to a retail showroom. Shortly thereafter, Slugger and Darlene purchased the building and adjoining lot and built a large warehouse.

Today, thousands of customers find superior choices in floor covering at Slugger's including top name brands like Mohawk Carpet and Hardwoods, Tarkett, Armstrong and Mannington, ceramic tile by American Olene and many more. Slugger's Carpet Sales offers the area's best pricing and selection of Stain Master treated fibers, as well as a large selection of vertical and mini-blinds. The showroom is managed by Maryann Ashby, an experienced floor covering expert herself, while Slugger stays on the road most days doing professional installation and in-home sales. "Oh yeah...I'm still 'The Man in the Red Van' and I still take a lot of samples to people at home...that will always be one of our services," Slugger says.

Now is a great time to visit Slugger's Carpet & Upholstery Cleaning and take advantage of the incredible financing opportunities where qualified buyers get NO INTEREST and NO PAYMENTS for 18 months!

> Michael's Auto is "The Dealer for the People!"

ichael's Auto Sales Has Reinvented The Car Business With You In Mind.

Mary and Michael Lewis understand that making a big decision, like buying a car, can often come with a great deal of stress. That's why their goal at Michael's Auto Sales is to put the fun back into the car-buying process. "We believe that Everyone Deserves To Drive A Nicer, Newer Car[®] and that buying a car should be a fun, stress-free experience. That's why we put our customers first and work hard to solve the transportation problems that keep most people stuck in a car they hate," they said.

This year, Michael's Auto Sales is celebrating 25 years serving the Tri-county area. As an award-winning, family-owned business specializing in helping local residents find, qualify for and drive cars they love, they work hard to make sure that every aspect of the car buying process is easy and enjoyable.

"We fight for you!" said Mary. "That's what makes us a dealer For The People" we've come up with the easiest way for you to dump the old car you hate driving and cruise home in a Nicer, Newer® car today." Michael's Auto Sales helps more than 600 families a year trade up from vehicles that no longer suit their situation, so they can drive home safe, reliable vehicles they love.

"We're so grateful to the community for supporting us for the past 25 years. We built our first building here in 1994," explained Mary about the bustling business located at the intersection of Rt. 21 and Ceylon. "Back then, it was just Michael and me. Now, we have a staff of 15. We've been able to continue to grow by helping people and doing the work we love."

To celebrate the milestone anniversary, Michael's Auto Sales has been hosting giveaways all year long. "This quarter we are giving away two kayaks and two mountain bikes," said Michael. "It's a great way to say thanks to the community, and all you have to do is visit Michael's Auto Sales, and be present to win," he finished.

But that's not the only way that you can win big right now at Michael's Auto Sales. This month, Michael and Mary are focusing on helping people declutter their driveways and find joy in driving again. "If your old ride is bringing you down, we want to help! So if it doesn't spark it, park it at Michael's Auto Sales, and we'll help you find joy in a car you love with the same or possibly even lower monthly payment," Mary said. "After all, no one should be stuck in a car they hate!"

Michael's Auto

Luckily, once you're a part of the Michael's Auto Sales family, they've always got your back. That's why they're the only independent dealer who offers service after the sale. "We know that when your car needs service it can be a stressful and sometimes confusing process. And life doesn't stop just because your car needs repairs. That's why we offer courtesy vehicles to keep you on the go while we take care of your ride," said Michael. They'll also walk you through the entire process of keeping your car in tip-top shape.

But Michael and Mary don't stop helping their community when they leave the dealership. This fall we are sponsoring a girls travel softball team . And August 24th, 2019 is our annual Tractor show. It is free to enter. All entries get a free tshirt.

The fans can vote for their favorite tractor for $1 votes. All proceeds benefit the Greene County 4-h.

"As a dealer For The People", we put our customers and the community first, before everything else. That's one thing that will never change. And it has allowed us to continue to grow and give back in the process," said Mary. Making Michael's Auto Sales a perfect example of "Growing In Greene" and positively impacting our local economy.

Clark's Nursery

bered his dream of owning his own nursery and began running a small nursery in his backyard. It started with wholesale ground cover, just as he learned at Minders' Nursery.

After the passing of G. Edward Minder, the nursery was for sale. Jennifer Clark, Fred's wife, remembers how her "husband always wanted it." With her husband recently out of the corporate world, "everything aligned" for the Clark family to purchase their beloved nursery. The nursery was already filled with many fond memories for Fred and he looked forward to building many more.

Clark's is a full-service nursery where the motto is, "we plant it, grow it and mow it." The Clarks have owned the Carmichaels location for around ten years. During this time, they have expanded the types of services and plants offered. You can buy your ground cover, mulch and plants at Clark's. You can arrange for landscaping or mowing services. During the winter, Clark's even offers snow plow services. People choose Clark's Nursery in large part because they have "good quality" and are "very focused on price," according to Jennifer. You can find what you're looking for and feel confident that you got a great deal.

Clark's Nursery is in the process of replacing greenhouses for more ground space. They have a constantly changing inventory and plan to expand to additional inventory in the future. One of their future additions will likely be a section devoted to unique ferns, trees and shrubs.

Customers at Clark's Nursery have their favorites, of course; mums are a popular choice. The mums available at Clark's are larger than average and vibrantly colored. Wreathes and grave blankets are also top customer choices. Clark's is one of the biggest wreath wholesalers; last year, they sold over 12,000 wreaths. Hanging baskets are always popular, especially with women and Clark's has noticed an increase in men's gardening, selling plenty of vegetable plants and mulch.

Several fun activities are on the horizon for Clark's Nursery. Every winter, the nursery holds their annual holiday open house. Every year, it's held on the Saturday immediately following Black Friday – November 30th this year. Customers can also tentatively anticipate a Pick Your Own Pumpkin even this fall. This event is tentative because it will entirely depend on whether the local wildlife, such as the deer, resist eating the pumpkins and leave enough for picking! A nursery is a seasonal business, Clark's Nursery has found a way for their nursery to provide for its customers regardless of the season. Whether you are a master gardener or starting your first flower bed, you can find what you need at Clark's.

Tive years ago, a devastating fire destroyed The Ice Plant in Greensboro. The much loved bar and restaurant was gone in one day. Around two years ago, Lisa and Curt Miller began the process of putting the Ice Plant back together.

The new Ice Plant will be much smaller than the original - about 1000 square feet as compared to 4500 - but Lisa hopes to continue to expand at a later date. While smaller, the Ice Plant will still offer the same great atmosphere and delicious food that helped them establish their very loyal customer base.

"We have an enormous customer base," says Lisa. "They've been so encouraging and supportive."

In an effort to incorporate the old into the new, doors from the old house that sits on the Ice Plant property were repurposed into walls for the new location. The slab from the original building has been turned into an outside patio to provide more seating options.

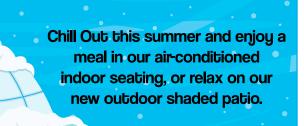

The Ice Plant hopes to reopen by the end of August once the final details are completed.

The same menu from before will be available, offering customer favorites and few new surprises to choose from. There will be daily specials and all-you-can-eat spaghetti will return on designated dates. While there isn't a bar yet - they will offer a beer takeout service. In addition to the restaurant, the Ice Plant offers pavilion rentals, catering, and is the home for the annual Ice Plant Car Show and Art Blast on the Mon.

You can find the Ice Plant on Facebook @iceplant. Follow them to stay up-to-date on their opening and specials!

inery owner Sharon Klay and her husband John first developed an interest in winemaking while living in New York City in the 1970s. This interest led them to research and select the nearly 100 varieties of grapes that would be suitable for cool climate growing conditions.

When the Klays relocated to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, they searched for three years to find a suitable vinevard site. In 1986, the couple purchased a 215-acre farm in Chalk Hill, Pennsylvania. John developed a successful practice as a cardiothoracic surgeon, while Sharon decided to take the original 1,000 vines on the property to 14,000 vines. In 1997, Fayette County's first commercial winery opened, named after the Klays' son Christian. Sharon planned to offer her customers the complete wine experience and soon developed an array of enticing special events for the public, such as murder mysteries and a "Wine & Dine in the Woods" series.

Fayette Springs Farm was a suitable place for the Klays' venture as the farm had a long history of entertaining and welcoming guests. At the turn of the century, the farm was owned by U.S. Senator William E. Crow who opened his mountain estate to many visitors including President Harding and Black Jack Pershing.

Today, the winery offers guests entertaining special events, informative and educational tours, ideal venues for private events, wine tasting, and shopping in six locations. An active partner in the community, the winerv also hosts annual benefits for Favette Friends of Animals and other non-profit organizations.

ituated along the winding Clarksville Road, family-run Hoyle's Auto Salvage has been serving the community since 1994, when Jimmy Hoyle received his first tow truck and began towing cars for the state police.

Jimmy and his father loved collectible cars and would bring their finds home and keep them on the vast Hoyle property. As Jimmy grew older he began to have a keen interest in owning a tow truck. When he turned 16, his parents bought him one and he quickly put it to good use and began towing cars for the state police. The towing business would eventfully evolve into bigger and better things and in 2009, the salvage yard was officially born.

Family-run by Jimmy and his parents, with a little help from Jimmy's seven-year old son, the business continues to grow. In addition to selling parts locally, they also have a thriving online parts business, shipping parts all over the world. Jimmy says,

The new building at Hoyle's.

Hoyle's Auto Salvage

"If you wanted a part on Mars, I'd send it to Mars." The online side is handled mainly by Teri Hoyle, Jimmy's mother. Jimmy handles the yard, as well as fluid extraction and inventory for new vehicle arrivals. Because of their increasing inventory, Hoyle's Auto Salvage is expanding into an additional building farther up the hill from their main office. The 60' x 100' building will be ready soon.

"People come back to us because we keep our prices low," said Teri "We also go the extra mile in finding our customers the parts they need. We'll find parts anywhere. If we don't have it, we'll find a place that does and get them shipped here. If the company won't ship, we'll direct the customer to the salvage yard where they can find the parts they need."

Greene County Economic Development

Greene, Work Greene, Love Greene' and it's a bright tomorrow for future generations based on energy. Just as coal has been the leading multi-generational job creating opportunity, now family-sustaining jobs are being fueled by the abundant natural gas under our feet. It's what we do with our natural gas, moving forward, that will keep our most precious resource – our families – right here in Greene County!

- To ensure that our children benefit from this generational opportunity, we are working with our school districts and Waynesburg University to develop workers that companies here desperately need. Additionally, apprenticeships in skilled trades are needed and available for the large projects associated with gas development.
- This bright future is closely connected to our river too. Moving freight to the growing population centers of the East Coast and Midwest requires railroads and highways, and more. Our river is a critical piece of our infrastructure system for properties and industrial opportunities it provides, and also the recreational opportunities.
- Our trails and recreational facilities are among the best in the Commonwealth. The Greene River Trail will soon stretch for over 7 miles so you can enjoy a bike ride, walk or run, and the beautiful view of our river. Wisecarver Recreation area is becoming a premier gathering place for our families and grandchildren to come. Pools and summer programs are so important to Greene County families too.

• The cutting-edge processes employed by advance manufacturing companies will now define how American business gets done and how the products of your daily life are made. Greene County is building a strong manufacturing base, founded in technology, fueled by our energy, the industrial redevelopment of our sites, the expansion of our freight infrastructure, teaching our people the necessary jobs skills and keeping them healthy.

It all works together, because the focus is on your health and well-being, safety, the education and jobs of your future. For more information call 724 852-5300 or visit www.greene.pa.us. w American busi- September 3rd.

The Southwest Corner Workforce Development Board received a grant this year from the Drug and Alcohol Programs (DDAP) and Human Services (DHS) for a new program to provide employment, training, and case management for Greene, Washington, and Beaver County residents effected by the opioid epidemic. The pilot program supports innovative practices that increase access to support services for individuals with opioid use disorder (OUD), keep people engaged in treatment and recovery, and help prevent overdose-related deaths.

Greene County employers and residents have seen tremendous benefits from this program. EMT and Paramedic Certification training is being provided for local employers Southwest EMS, Brownsville Ambulance Service, and Washington County EMS.

"In my own experience this grant has helped me to not only expand my employment with EMS Southwest but to secure a sound career with my EMT Certification in which I can grow and expand my horizons, all while allowing me to comfortably take care of my new family and newborn daughter," says Shawn, an employee at EMS Southwest. "It has seriously eased the burden of seeking further education and really streamlined the process so that I could focus on my work and studies. This allowed me the time and comfort to fall in love with the field I work in today."

Shawn began his employment at EMS Southwest as a Paratransit driver. When Shawn saw the opportunity to advance his career and expand his education with the organization, he gladly accepted. It's been great to watch Shawn welcome the challenge and develop into a strong EMT through the Cadet Program.

"The grant has given me the opportunity to help my community as well as maintaining a stable career," shares Matthew, another employee with EMS Southwest.

Matthew was of the newly hired Cadet students brought on thanks to the program. Since he started the program he has become a welcome member of the EMS Southwest team.

Both Shawn and Matthew are residents of Greene County and are only a few of the valuable team members acquired through the EMT Cadet Program. EMS Southwest opted to pay wages to students through the duration of the course and it proved successful. Everyone involved is excited to have another round of students beginning soon and they are openings for a few more candidates to fill the class. Interested candidates can email resumes to info@emssouthwestinc.com or stop by the office at 590 Rolling Meadows Road, Waynesburg PA for an application.

Many program participants have successfully completed a Certified Recovery Specialist training that will prepare them to work in a peer-to-peer support role assisting other individuals recovering from substance abuse.

Ashley went through some difficult times and ended up unemployed. To support her family, Ashley turned to the available programs to help her get a fresh start. After going to classes organized by Penn State Beaver, Ashley is on her way to becoming a Certified Recovery Specialist and loves this wonderful opportunity.

"The program really helped me get over barriers," Ashley says. "They helped me get a car, repair it, and get the training I needed. It's a 100% improvement in my life. This program helped me realize that anything is possible with hard work, and anything worth having is worth working for."

Chuck Deyell, Southwest Corner Opioid Liaison, states that, "The people of Greene County affected by these issue need our help, and we're so fortunate that we've been able to improve the lives of the people who needed us the most."

For more information on this program please contact Chuck Deyell at 724-229-5083.

Pam Snyder, State Representative

am honored to serve you as your state representative. I wanted to provide you a brief update on some of the issues I've been working on – on your behalf:

Broadband – I remain committed to ensuring all Pennsylvanians, regardless of where they live, have access to reliable broadband service. One of my bills in this effort, House Bill 305, would direct the state to take inventory of existing communications assets that can be used to expand broadband service.

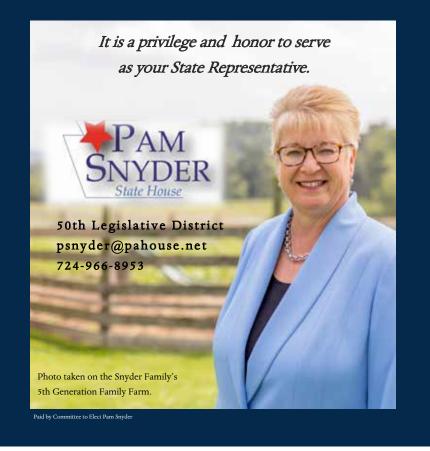

Property tax – I partnered with state Reps. Marcia Hahn and Rosemary Brown on a measure that would establish a property tax reform program to allow school districts to exclude up to 100 percent of a homeowner's school property bill. It would increase the state's personal income tax by 1.8 %, the amount needed to offset the property tax. This program would remove the property tax burden from seniors and homeowners, yet still provide the adequate funding necessary for school districts to operate.

PA Farm Bill – I was pleased that this comprehensive package of bills was approved and signed by the governor, ensuring a strong agriculture future for our commonwealth. My bill will create a grant program to reimburse federal meat inspection costs for small or new processors.

My staff and I are here to help you with any concerns or questions you may have. Please call my office in Carmichaels at 724-966-8953 or my Waynesburg office at 724-627-8683.

State Rep. Pam Snyder is serving her fourth term representing the 50th state House District, which includes Greene, Fayette and Washington Counties.

Roman's Acupuncture & Wellness Center

Roman's Acupuncture & Wellness welcomes you from the moment you pull into the well-maintained gravel parking area. Beautiful landscaping surrounds the residential-style building that houses the alternative medicine clinic. Upon opening the wood and glass double doors that lead to the lobby then through another door to the reception area, you are greeted with lovely decor and the relaxing aroma of clove, lime, and spearmint essential oils. It feels like you are entering the home of a friend. And that is just how owner Stacy Roman planned her business to be.

It all started when Stacy was a child. "I was very ill as a child," she said. "Alternative medicine was the only thing that helped me." As an adult, Stacy wanted to bring alternative choices to more people. She began working in the health field in 1993, starting with massage therapy. Fifteen years and three expansions later, she offers a host of services from acupuncture and massage therapy to non-invasive body contouring/ shaping and Mild Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy. CBD products are also available. The list of available services and products goes on and on, but Stacy strives to keep it simple.

"Our motto is 'Alternative solutions made simple." Stacy starts with a consultation. From there, a treatment plan is formed. Age is not always a factor when it comes to alternative therapy; there are certain services offered that can be used on newborns to help them tolerate breast milk, as well as, treatments for adults looking to smooth their skin or manage their chronic pain. "We have a big variety of clients," said Stacy. Some people seek alternative methods as a "last resort" while others are trying to satisfy their curiosity. Most seem to fall somewhere in the middle with just wanting to feel better whether on the inside or outside. Roman couldn't be more pleased with the diversity of her clientele and the treatments they desire. "I love to go from one thing to another," she said.

Roman's Acupuncture & Wellness has three floors dedicated to caring for their clients. The main floor has four treatment rooms, a sauna, the hyperbaric chamber, CBD products, the aesthetic services, etc. The downstairs houses the weight loss and massage therapy areas. The upstairs is dedicated to private parties.

"We began booking private parties in January of this year," stated Stacy. Roman's clients serve as host or hostess and guests are offered the chance to sample some of the services at a discounted rate. The host/hostess earns a percentage which is applied toward their own future treatments. "One client brought 35 guests. He ended up earning $1,500.00 in treatments," said Stacy. Private parties can last for two hours or longer. "All we ask is that there be at least eight guests attending," said Stacy. There is no cost to host a party, and the host or hostess does not even have to attend. "We handle the whole thing," explained Stacy. An added bonus is that red wine, white wine, tea, and coffee are served throughout the party. Everyone seems to benefit from the private parties. The client receives credit toward services, the guests receive discounted services, and Roman's has the opportunity to showcase their services and possibly gain new clients.

Stacy Roman is very excited about Roman's Acupuncture & Wellness's newest employee, Willow Wind. Willow is a gorgeous 13-month-old Native American Village dog. The Native American Village is a new breed of dog that is hypoallergenic. "Nothing is set in stone, but our clients with allergies have had no issues with her," said Stacy. Right now, Willow is in training to be a therapy dog. Since Willow will eventually be working with children, socialization is an important part of her training. She has been spending her time getting used to being around people.

Roman's Acupuncture & Wellness Center, located on Blue Horizon Drive in Morgantown.

REAL PROPERTY OF

Over the last 15 years, Stacy Roman has worked hard to get her business to where it is today. While there is not much competition in alternative solutions in this area, Stacy has not slacked off. She has already reached the level she wanted her business to achieve so her future plans for the business are aimed more toward maintaining that level. However, Stacy has already started to further her education so that she can incorporate functional medicine into Roman's. So the future already seems brighter.

While Stacy just finished the big 15-year celebration event for Roman's, she has already started plans for three other events. Roman's 'Back-to-School' event will include free consultations for children ages newborn to 18, a 5% discount on stress and anxiety treatments, and information will be available on homeopathic cold and flu prevention, hyperbaric and massage therapies for sports injuries, and treatments for relieving fall allergies. Watch for the ad coming out soon.

Another scheduled event is the performing arts piece, '40 Years to Finding Me'. Monologues, poetry, and songs will tell the true story concerning the bad things in life, such as trauma, illness, and heartache, and how love, perseverance, and the power of the human spirit can help one to live again. The play will be performed at Roman's on September 21 at 5:00 p.m. Visit www.rondasuder.com for tickets or more information.

The third event in the works is a day to celebrate your "fur baby." While the event is still in the planning stage, one activity that has already been set is pet reading. A date is yet to be determined, but Stacy is aiming to host this event in the fall of this year.

Roman's Acupuncture & Wellness is located at 1762 Blue Horizon Drive in Morgantown, WV. Days and hours of operation are Monday through Friday by appointment. For more information, visit www.romansacupuncture.com or call 304-322-0093.

LEADING THE FUTURE

Blair Zimmerman & Dave Coder

A syour Commissioners, we steered Greene County through the introduction of Marcellus Shale drilling. Greene County found a window looking over the globe's energy play. As we continue to be the highest producing bituminous coal county in the nation, we are also one of the highest natural gas producing counties in the country. Many of you started new companies and have done exceptionally well. Many of you have taken new jobs and have excelled. You see it everywhere you look.

Now, what is about to happen, is all new again. The natural gas beneath our feet is a fuel source – and a powerful one. It is opening doors to new jobs in technology and the trades. These are family-sustaining, generational jobs, for as long as we can imagine.

Now Greene County IS the window of the globe's energy play. Yes, that's how exceptional our natural resources really are. As your Commissioners, we have been champions of the first steps. Now the future development of the shale gas play is in arms reach. We will continue to lead Greene County with our experience and knowledge base to seamlessly pioneer this course into our future.

We are so proud to be leading Greene County – this powerful place, our place – into a brighter future. There has never been a more invigorating time to live, work and play in Greene County.

Our vision is a bold plan for our future, developed by YOU!! From all corners of the county and from all walks of life, we asked you to contribute to this plan, and you did!

The future of our great nation depends on energy security. Our energy industry will always remain at the forefront of what we do. Our natural resources, especially our most precious resource, our children, will always be at the forefront of who we are—and we are Greene Countians—we love this place and know that you do too. This is an exciting time that we are thrilled to be a part of, and we are humbly asking for your vote.

Mike Belding & Betsy Rohanna McClure for Commissioner

We say that we are "one nation, indivisible", giving voice to our hope that as a people we will remain strong, unified, and free. Yet politics divide our nation. In Greene County, divide-and-conquer power-grabbing politics has been used for far too long. It weakens us and makes our community vulnerable. But it doesn't have to be that way. We can unite in addressing our common interests; transparent, honest, effective and efficient county government, robust and resilient diversified economy, safe, vibrant communities with future focused educational opportunities for our children.

We can make a new and different choice, but we have little time left. While Southwestern Pennsylvania is experiencing growth and renewal, driven by a booming natural gas industry, our own county displays symptoms of decline. In the last eight years, we have lost 6% of our population and associated tax base, 8% of jobs, 15% of payroll dollars, and 12.2% of student enrollment. Food insecurity is a concern for nearly 25% of our youth.

The message, "Not RED, Not BLUE" "GREENE" refers to this new and different choice; to either remain trapped in this polarized political landscape, or to move on to a new way of thinking. Let's reap the benefit of choosing our future and working together to get there. Let's call an end to Greene County polarizing politics and a beginning to pulling together in a common direction, to make a better life and community for ourselves and our children.

Wouldn't it be refreshing if government decisions were based solely on providing the taxpayer with the highest possible value for their money, the most qualified candidate or contractor, and the best possible outcome for today's citizens as well as the next generation of GREENE Countians? What if choices were made to provide the best result for residents, instead of just another win at the polls?

Two Greene County Commissioner candidates, Mike Belding and Betsy McClure, offer an opportunity this November to choose a non- partisan, united government, focused on the needs of the people.

Mike grew up here, served our country and returned to Greene County to raise his family and enjoy the slower paced life that country living offers. He has extensive leadership and communications experience, degrees in agriculture, management and strategic planning. Mike has lived in eleven different communities throughout his career and brings that experience home to us.

Betsy is a lifelong resident of Greene County, earning her nursing degree at Waynesburg University, a Masters in Education from California University of PA, and holds a K-12 Principal Certification. She was a hospice case manager, and hospital supervisor and has also taught college and vocational technical nursing classes. She is a certified nurse at the Trinity Area School District where she has worked for the last 18 years. She brings extensive experience in nursing, healthcare and education.

Mike and Betsy have already demonstrated focus, tenacity and teamwork. They will work together on more effective, efficient and responsive government, economic diversity and growth, and tackling the illegal drug crisis. Together, they will deliver strong, competent, servant leadership where the people come first, and taxpayers are treated like customers.

Please VOTE for TWO on November 5th. Vote for Mike Belding and Betsy McClure for Greene County Commissioners.

Pine Tree Quilt Shop

inda Jones had always been involved with crafts with her mom and dreamed of one day opening her own store. After retiring from West Greene, she decided to take the leap and opened Pine Tree Quilt Shop in Waynesburg. The shop is named after her grandmother's pine tree quilt, created sometime between 1900 and 1920.

Pine Tree Quilt Shop has everything a quilter could need. The shop carries quilt shop quality cotton fabrics, patterns, pattern books, notions (scissors, rulers, pins, etc...) and thread. They offer machine repair and long-arm quilting through third-parties, too. Linda takes pride in her store's wide variety of products, friendly atmosphere, and the years of knowledge and experience she offers her customers.

Linda recently launched a new website for the shop, ptquiltshop.com, with information on her classes, inventory, and an event schedule. The website allows visitors to make purchases online and have them shipped to their homes or pick them up at the store. Linda sends out a periodic newsletter - sign up online to be included in her mailings.

Throughout the year, Linda offers a range of classes. Group classes are held at the fellowship hall at Rogersville United Methodist Church. She also holds a monthly Sit 'n Sew at the hall. Linda offers one-on-one beginner classes at her shop for those interested in beginning to quilt.

Additionally, Linda often travels to teach classes and attend quilting shows as a vendor. She will be at the Mon Valley Quilt Club Quilt Show at the Mon Valley YMCA on Sept. 20 and 21 and the Martha Washington Quilter's Guild Quilt Show in Washington on Nov. 8 and 9. FMI, call 724-833-9147 or visit ptquiltshop.com.

Dave Russo for District Attorney

i, I'm Dave Russo, your conservative candidate for District Attorney of Greene County.

As our county moves forward into the upcoming November elections, it is important to remember to vote responsibly. Your local elected officials make policy decisions that directly affect the families living in our community. These policies are a product of the elected official's values, principals and beliefs and directly impact how our community deals with the drug epidemic our county currently faces, the drug related crimes plaguing our community and the safety of our families. It is my personal belief that keeping the children and the families that make up our community safe should be are number one priority. Greene County's drug problem is not going to go away on its own. It is the duty and responsibility of our elected officials to initiate proactive policies to make our community safe again. If we keep our current approach of only being reactive to Greene County's drug problem the problem will only get worse. As District Attorney of our county I pledge to go after the drug dens and crack houses that jeopardize the safety of our community and our children. Please remember me on election day. Together we can make our community safe again.

G&H Sporting Goods

A H Sporting Goods - making outdoor sports GOOD!

What is it about being outdoors that makes us feel human? Far from any paved highway, dwarfed by mighty maple and oak trees, listening to an orchestra of birds trying to out-perform one another and hoping for a chance encounter with the rumored 12 point buck, or trophy brook trout. The sounds, the sights and the smells all awaken the senses and transport us back to the most primal versions of ourselves. Maybe it is just for sport or maybe you are stocking the freezer for the winter, either way if you are an outdoors person then you know the right equipment is just as important as location, season and weather.

If you are local to Greene County then you know it offers some beautiful places to enjoy the outdoors. Some may hunt or fish on their own property while others frequent multiple sportsman clubs, shooting ranges and game lands. Why suffer the inconvenience of leaving town to find the right gear? Or endure the poor selection and lack of personal service often experienced at the big box stores... But you don't have to!

Brady Gaines opened G & H Sporting Goods in the spring of 2017. Brady is a Greene County native; who better to know what you need for the local outdoors than someone local? G & H offers a wide variety of firearms, fishing tackle, handmade knives, ammunition, custom holsters and much, much more.

Brady takes pride in his carefully curated selection of rifles, shotguns, bows and pistols and also offers some one-of-a-kind pieces. He will often have special promotions including his "Grow-Up and Trade-Up" program. This allows a patron to purchase a starter firearm for their youngster and once he or she has outgrown the rifle they may bring it back to G & H where its value may be used in purchasing a more suitable sized replacement rifle. It's a great way to introduce outdoor sports to your kids and helps make it a more affordable process.

If hunting is not your forte' but are in the market for a fire arm for personal security, he can help you select the right pistol and holster to fit your needs.

And as always, don't forget G & H can help you with all of your fishing and hunting license purchases too.

The most avid fisherman, or woman, would be impressed by the selection of vests, tackle, reels and rods. They carry many wellknown brands, outstanding selection and competitive prices. Whether you're off to the lake to land a largemouth, or down to the streams to catch a rainbow or that elusive palomino everyone has been after, make G & H your first destination on your way to the water's edge.

Take advantage of all this beautiful county has to offer and get outdoors. If you are not a hunter and don't prefer fish, don't worry, G & H Sporting Goods carries a selection of items to make your summer and fall excursions the best yet! Maybe you're planning a trip to the beach: they have Kysek brand coolers that keep ice for up to 10 days. And if you purchase your Kysek cooler from Gaines you can bring it back anytime for a lifetime supply of free ice. Do you often enjoy bird watching? You'll find an assortment of high-end binoculars and scopes to view every colorful detail. If you are in the market for that perfect gift for that perfect guy, they can engrave and personalize items including, but not limited to, knives, canteens, and rifles. They even carry beautiful, embossed leather handbags adorned with turquoise and silver rivets for the country woman that needs to conceal her pistol, or just loves nice purses.

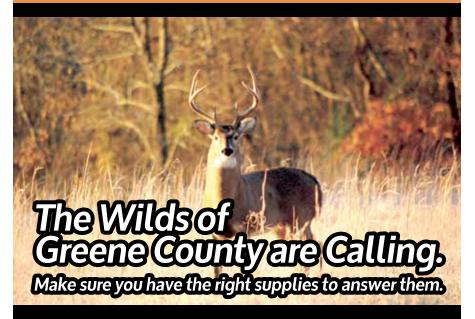

G&H is an essential part of Greene County and their great selection and friendly service is guaranteed! Come and see for yourself, they are located at 560 West High St., Waynesburg. For more information you may call 724-802-7998, or visit them at G & H Sporting Goods on Facebook.

Jessica Phillips for District Attorney

My Greene County upbringing gave me honest Greene County values – the values that truly matter in your choice for the next District Attorney.

My family taught me that the only day's work is a hard day's work. From weed eating fence lines at age 12 to spending weekends and holidays preparing for court on behalf of clients who rely on my representation, I have never been one to shy away from the task.

My neighbors taught me not just to pitch in, but also that a talent is best shown when shared. I continue to serve my community – and Greene County's future – as a volunteer soccer coach.

My teachers, coaches, and other mentors taught me to set worthwhile goals with the understanding that I would gain as much in working toward those goals as in achieving them. Those early mornings in the barn with the animals I readied for the 4-H Shows provided me with as much valuable experience as those late nights spent at the law school library working toward my degree.

You – my Greene County community – have taught me the importance of these honest Greene County values. I would be both humbled and honored if you would find your trust well-placed in choosing me to serve as the next Greene County District Attorney.

Solar Festival - Center for Coalfield Justice

reene County's first-ever Solar Festival will be Saturday, September 28 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Greene County Fairgrounds. The Festival will showcase how solar power can save families money, grow our economy and provide secure, reliable electricity without relying on large utilities.

Pennsylvania already has over 21,000 solar installations, but only 13 of them are here in Greene County, according to the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission. The state ranked 22nd in the nation in solar production in the first quarter of 2019.

The Solar Festival will be an opportunity to learn how residents and business owners in Greene County can increase our share of this growing industry.

Festival attendees can expect a wide variety of local vendors selling food, crafts, and goods, as well as kids' games, educational exhibits and activities and live music throughout the day.

There will be opportunities to talk to solar organizations and companies, learn about job training and employment opportunities, and get an up-close look at electric vehicle models from various local dealers. A solar-powered trailer will provide power to the festival and can charge participants' phones and devices.

HOME IMPROVEMENT ADVICE FROM INDUS-TRY EXPERTS

Panels of solar power experts and customers will highlight how people benefit from utilizing solar power in their homes, businesses, and communities.

Speakers include:

- Solar United Neighbors, an organization that helps build solar co-ops, will explain how working together with neighbors can make it easier and more affordable to go solar, giving people more control over their electricity and saving thousands on electric bills.
- Greene County residents who recently made the switch to solar energy will explain the process and costs of their own project and discuss the benefits of owning their own power generation system.
- Linda Wigington, a resident of Waynesburg and a Residential Energy Consultant, will share tips and tricks on how to save money by improving your home's energy efficiency.

Experienced solar installers will talk about what it takes to work in the most rapidly growing occupation in the country, with a median wage of over $43,000 per year, according to the US Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Handbook.

Over the last 5 years, solar prices have fallen by 34%, according to the Pennsylvania Solar Industries Association,. At the same time, the industry created over 4,000 jobs.

In Greene County, the first large scale solar project is being planned at the Longview Power Plant. These jobs are opportunities for both unskilled and skilled workers in the region.

In addition, with so many rural communities in Greene County, solar energy provides residents with increased energy security during natural disasters or larger power outages.

Ten years ago a snowstorm caused power outages for about a week for much of the county. In crisis situations like this, owning your own power system can help ensure you have reliable power when you need it the most without costly generators or waiting on utility companies.

SOLAR SCHOLAR-SHIP

As part of the Solar Festival, we have a scholarship competition to engage young people in the growing renewable energy field. Students can earn up to $5,000 to use towards their secondary education. Students currently age 16-20 who reside in Washington or Greene County can apply by submitting a 500word essay focused on renewable energy. If interested, submit your name, telephone number, school, and an essay by September 16th to heaven@coalfieldjustice.org.

Washington Health System Greene

HS Greene just keeps getting better. They continue to invest in improvements to increase the quality of their facility, technology, and patient care. For those that depend on WHS Greene for their healthcare needs, it means knowing that their needs are being taken care of by a dedicated team that has access to state-of-the art equipment, with the utmost thought to safety and efficiency.

More than $4 million dollars have been invested to make improvements to the physical facility and its rural health clinic in the form of renovations, aesthetics, new furniture, safety improvements and more. New technology has been adopted, resulting in an upgraded Radiology department including a new MRI and CT Machine, upgrading their Electronic Health Records and electronic test results as well as offering virtual visits. WHS Greene also expanded service offerings with the addition of telemedicine, outpatient pulmonary, oncology, wound care, foot and ankle care, and a long-term treatment center.

Almost a year ago, the Greenbriar Treatment Center, opened a long-term treatment center for those suffering from chemical dependency inside the WHS Greene facility. This program treats patients in a supervised environment for up to 100 days to promote new life skills. The facility houses 28 beds and gives priority to Greene and Washington County residents. The program has helped close to 100 people since it opened in November of 2018. The facility is currently full and has a waiting list.

A UPMC Hillman Cancer Center is located on the first floor of the hospital and has been seeing patients two days a month. "This is something that community has asked us to provide for them," says Terry Wiltrout, President of Washington Health System Greene. "Patients are now able to see a doctor without having to drive to Washington, or even Pittsburgh."

The hospital has also collaborated with Dr. Swarna Varma, an endocrinologist, to see patients one day a week. "Our partnership with Dr. Varma has been wonderful for our patients," shares Terry. "Diabetes care is high on community needs, so we were glad to offer this service to our community."

Washington Health System Greene recently installed a new CT Machine in the radiology department. This new machine offers greater patient comfort and is built to serve their pediatric through geriatric population. It also includes a larger table that can accommodate up to 660lbs. Some of the other benefits to the new machine include shorter exam times, reduces radiation and state-of-the-art diagnostic accuracy.

The WHS Greene Rural Health Clinic located on Route 21 received extensive renovations during 2018. Now all primary care physicians are located under one roof and easily accessible to patients.

Washington Health System believes in the integration of technology to make patient care more efficient and accurate. Electronic health records allow for seamless electronic communications, resulting in well-informed care for patients through the entire WHS system. Electronic test results give patients, via a computer or electronic device, quick access to their results, lessening wait time – and worry.

The WHS Virtual Care app gives patients urgent care clinics at the tips of their fingers. Patients use their phone's video chat capabilities to consult with a physician for urgent but non-emergency needs, all from their own home. FMI, visit WHSVirtualCare.com to sign up.

Advanced technology previously made its way into the Emergency Department with the integration of UPMC Telestroke, allowing physicians access to world-class stroke experts through telemedicine using videoconferencing technology to link the WHS Greene Emergency Department with physicians at the UPMC Stroke Institute. Pittsburgh-located UPMC stroke experts are able to provide real-time assessments of stroke patients, ask questions of the patient, family, and ED staff, view CT scans and help ED physicians determine the best course of treatment. Over the past year, WHS Greene has expanded their telemedicine to include TelePulmonary. In April, they will expand again to include nephrology and infectious disease.

WHS Greene makes sure to keep an immense community presence by participating in many local events, such as the King Coal parade, Christmas parade, Rotary events, 4-H sales and more. Their annual WHS HallowGreene event gives community children a safe place to enjoy some trick-or-treating "At WHS Greene, our patients are our friends, family, neighbors and fellow staff members," says Terry. "That's why it's important for Washington Health System to be involved in the community."

WHS Greene is here for the community. Because of that, they will continue to improve and expand their services and facilities to provide the best patient care available. To see more of what is happening, visit their website at whs.org/greene or find them on Facebook @whsgreene.

Haunted Hills Estate Scream Park

n September 13th, a brand - new Haunted Scream Park opens its doors to terrorize and entertain western Pennsylvania.

The new Haunted Hills Estate Scream Park in Uniontown, PA, billed as "Western PA's Fastest-Growing Haunted Attraction," provides visitors with 3 individual haunted attractions, as well as an expansive midway area, complete with Halloween-themed midway games, nightly live entertainment, and a gift shop, among other frightful features.

The "Haunted Theme Park" has enlisted the help of some of the best in the business to bring high-quality horrors to western Pennsylvania, including Kyle Vest from the GSN show Skin Wars.

The event offers visitors three different haunted attractions, which visitors can choose at their own pace:

"The House," a terrifying haunted mansion filled with theme-park styled special effects and intense actors.

"Imperium", The 'World's First Escape House' in which visitors must complete tasks and solve puzzles to escape a warehouse filled with horrific mutations and government experiments.

"The Deadwoods Challenge Trail", an innovative haunted trail experience where visitors are given flag football belts, and must trek deep into the woods, completing a series of challenges while avoiding creatures that attempt to grab their flags.

"We are incredibly excited to unleash our unique brand of entertainment onto Western Pennsylvania," says Aidan P. Finnegan, the event's Marketing Director. "There truly is something for everyone here, from the intense, highly interactive actors to the extravagant special effects. We're also providing an unprecedented amount of value to our visitors, as this is a place where our guests can truly spend an entire evening for their ticket price. Between the 3 attractions and all of the activities in the Midway area, we offer an experience visitors won't find anywhere else."

The value doesn't stop once visitors have exited the event, as the new Scream Park has partnered with Scene75 Entertainment Center in Pittsburgh to offer free games of Laser Tag to visitors.

"We are very excited to have Scene75 on board, so we can provide visitors with additional entertainment even after they've left our event," says Finnegan.

Besides standard Halloween fare, the park will also host a "Day of the Dead Festival" on Saturday, November 2nd. This event, billed as "Western Pennsylvania's Largest After-Halloween Party," will feature 2 haunted houses, roaming interactive characters, a festive DJ, a fireworks show, fire-breathers, vendors, and 'many more surprises' in an all-night party atmosphere.

The park will close in mid-November following their last event, "Lights Out: A Full Contact Immersive Horror Experience." This exclusive ages 18+ event will show the park in an entirely different light. Visitors are required to sign a waiver upon purchasing a ticket, and from the moment they step through the gates, creatures are allowed to touch visitors. "It's the closest thing to being in a real horror movie," says owner Jackie 'Spookygirl' Loveall. "If you're afraid of live insects and getting wet, we strongly suggest not attending."

The park will be open on select nights from September 13th through November 9th. Tickets begin at $25 online and at the door. Guests can visit www.HauntedHillsEstate.com for tickets and more information.

Programs in Early Learning, Aging Well, Building Futures, WIC

If you know someone 55 and older who is interested in Volunteering or know of someone in the Greene County Area who could benefit from any of our programs in Aging Well, CALL TODAY!

hen someone mentions Head Start, Pre-K, WIC, Home Delivered Meals, Senior Centers, or the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, it usually rings a bell for most residents in Greene County. But when someone says, "have you heard of Blueprints?" it's usually followed by a "no, what's that?" response.

Blueprints, formerly Community Action Southwest, is a non-profit organization that serves 20,000 residents in Greene County, Washington County, and West Virginia. With over 50 programs across the organization, Blueprints offers families the opportunity to break barriers and build futures to obtain self-sufficiency through our 4 core pillars: Mind, Home, Health and Wallet. Each one of these pillars guides the organization in order to better serve the people who depend on us to improve their daily lives and their futures.

"Blueprints is honored to serve our neighbors in Greene County from cradle to gray. We provide so many services in Greene County that getting the word out can be complicated." said Blueprints CEO Darlene Bigler, "To be clearer, all of our services fit into the pillars of Mind, Home, Health and Wallet. People are often more familiar with our individual programs, like Blueprints Head Start and Pre K Counts, which fit into our Mind pillar. Blueprints senior centers, home delivered meals and care management for seniors are in our Home and Health pillars. We hope the Blueprints pillars make communicating about our programs a bit simpler."

Greene County is one of the most unique areas they serve. With programs like WIC and Building Futures located in their Waynesburg field office, you will find Aging

Blueprints

Well and Early Learning spread out all over the county.

From Mt. Morris to West Greene and everywhere in between, our Aging Well program not only serves the Greene county seniors, but allows our seniors to serve the community through volunteering opportunities. With socialization in our Senior Centers and volunteer opportunities through the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Blueprints allows seniors 55+ the opportunity to be a part of programs like Store-To-Door Grocery Delivery, Home Delivered Meals and Telephone Reassurance which directly serve the people who have ultimately become their friends to maintain a healthy and happy life.

The start of a happy life also beings when a child is born. The Early Learning program at Blueprints offers families the opportunity to learn and grow with their children through the Head Start, Early Head Start and Pre-K programs in a classroom or in your home. With a whole family approach, the early learning staff at Blueprints works to educate both the family and the child not only in educational studies for development but in personal development by introducing healthy daily practices. With spots still available in Dry Tavern, Morrisville and Carmichaels, it's not too late to register your child to start them down the path to a solid education to set them up for success!

"No matter how people refer to our programs or agencies, Blueprints is in the community, helping to strengthen and sharpen minds, stabilize and secure homes, preserve and improve wellbeing, and helping to take charge of your wallet." - Darlene Bigler.

Waynesburg University Football Primed for Breakout Season

Over the last three years, the Waynesburg University football team has been growing both as a team and a program. Under fourth-year head coach Chris Smithley, the Yellow Jackets have combined to go 8-22 and 8-17.

However, as the team enters the 2019 season, they are primed to have a breakout year. They put up their best record since the 2015 season in 2018 going 4-6 and 4-5 in Presidents' Athletic Conference play.

They were a team led by guarterback Tyler Perrone, who threw for 1465 yards and six touchdowns, and running back Chad Walker, who averaged 76.7 yards per game while scoring two touchdowns. Both return for their final seasons in a Jacket uniform and will be looking to get Waynesburg back into the PAC playoff picture.

On the defensive side of the ball, Smithley and his team have some big shoes to fill with star linebacker John Glen-Davis and defensive end Wil VanNorman having graduated. This season, the Yellow Jackets will be led by senior linebacker Tyler Smith. Smith led Waynesburg with 86 tackles and 2.0 sacks in 2018.

Waynesburg begins 2019 playing three of their first four games on the road including their PAC opener against Westminster. After being tested early in the season, they will get a chance to finish the year at John F. Wiley Stadium with three of thier final four at home.

The Waynesburg University Football team opens their season on Saturday, September 7th, when they take on Muskingum at 1:30 p.m. in New Concord, Ohio.

Waynesburg Men's Cross Country Eyes Growth in 2019

The 2018 season was a big year for the Waynesburg University Cross Country team in several different aspects. On one hand, they finished fifth in the PSUAC and had a strong senior class leading the way. On the other hand, they had to say goodbye to six valuable runners and now have to look to the next generation of Jacket runners to lead the way.

However, for head coach Chris Hardie and his team, they are prepared with many talented runners ready to step up and take their place as the leaders of the 2019 team. In that Presidents' Athletic Conference Championships in 2018, it was a trio of sophomores leading the way and all three return to the team.

Junior Jordan Payne leads the crew after finishing 15th overall 28:37 in last year's championship event. For his efforts, Pavne received All-PAC Honorable Mention and was the lone Yellow Jacket to receive a conference award.

Fellow juniors Matt Mansfield and Nate Jacelin also return after impressive runs of their own at the championship event. The duo finished in 23rd and 22nd respectively each posting a time of 29:09.

With the 2019 season right around the corner, the Yellow Jackets will be training for the next two weeks before opening their season on August 30th at the Westminster Fisher Invitational.

Waynesburg Women's Cross Country Looks to Continue Roll After 2018 PAC Champion-

The 2018 season was a big year for the Waynesburg University Women's Cross-Country team. They claimed their third straight Presidents' Athletic Conference Championship and had two top five finishers in last year's championship event.

Both runners are making a return in 2019, and look to defend their titles as the top runners for the Yellow Jackets. Sophomores Aubrey Winegeart and Gloria Reed finished third and forth last season with times of 24:20 and 24:21. They will bring last year's championship experience into this season as they continue to grow.

Waynesburg did lose one of its top runners as senior Teaghan Simonton graduated in April of 2019. She finished her Yellow Jacket career finishing the PAC championships in 12th place and earning All-PAC second-team honors.

The Yellow Jackets have claimed PAC gold in each of the last three seasons dating back to the 2016 campaign. Head Coach Chris Hardie has all but one runner from his team returning and looks to build a dynasty at Waynesburg.

Waynesburg kicks off its Women's Cross-Country season on Friday August 30th at the Westminster Fisher Invitational.

The Waynesburg University Men's Soccer team is a young group on the rise. In 2018, they finished the year 5-10-1, including a 2-4-1 record in conference play. Although these aren't the results that head coach Brad Heethuis and his team wanted but with many of the Yellow Jacket roster returning, there is much promise ahead for the young team.

Among the returners are two of Waynesburg's top three scorers from last season in senior Justin Buberl and junior Daniel Hott. The duo scored five goals a piece last season combining to score 10 of the team's 27 goals.

However, the Yellow Jackets will have to replace the production of graduate Tyler Sisler. Sisler led the team in every offensive category including assists (6), points (16), and shots (48).

On defense, Waynesburg will have junior Adam Dolan back in net and return back-up Jonathan Campbell. Dolan tallied 46 saves on 82 shots on goal this season.

The Yellow Jackets will jump back and forth between home and road to start the season. They go on the road for their first three games of the year and return home to play three more at John F. Wiley Stadium.

Waynesburg opens the season on the road against Lancaster Bible College on Friday August 30th, and play their home opener on Monday September 9th against Wilson College.

Waynesburg Women's Soccer Hopes to Build on Experience

The Waynesburg University Women's Soccer team is a program that has been growing for several seasons improving their winloss record for each of the last three years. This season, the Yellow Jackets will have their eye on the Presidents' Athletic Conference playoff spot as many players gained another year of experience.

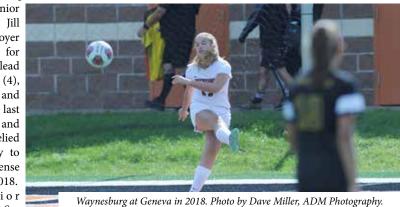

With just three players graduating in 2018, the Yellow Jackets bring back almost all of their starters on both the offensive and defensive side of the ball. Head Coach Laura Heethuis and her team will try and to build on their experiences this year.

Returning to lead the Yellow Jacket offense is junior forward Jill Moyer. Moyer was tied for the team lead in goals (4), assists (1), and points (9) last season, and will be relied on heavily to get the offense going in 2018. Senior Courtney Syfert returns in net for Waynesburg coming off an impressive junior campaign that saw her make 108 saves on 132 shots on goal for an .818 save percentage.

Waynesburg faces a road heavy schedule to start the season as they have to go on the road to play their first four games of the season. They end the year with back-to-back home games, which will help give them home field advantage for a possible playoff run.

The Yellow Jackets open the season on the road at Lancaster Bible College on August 30th before returning for their home opener on September 11th against Muskingum.

2019 Greene County Football Preview

WAYNESBURG - The move to the 3A Tri-County South conference was not kind to Waynesburg Central in 2018 in a year that saw them finish just 2-8, 0-7. However, with many of their starters returning for the 2019 season, this year's Raiders team is looking for growth.

Leading the way will be senior quarterback Caleb Shriver who, after taking over the quarterback position last year, is looking to provide leadership to this young core. He rushed for a team high 364 yards on 98 carries while throwing for 227 yards, going 16-46 with two touchdowns.

On the defensive side of the ball, the Red Raiders have lost their two leading tacklers in Caleb Stephenson and Spenser Lasinski. However, stepping in their place will be Trevor Stephenson and Avery McConville who finished the year with 40 and 37 tackles respectively.

The Raiders will be under the direction of third year head coach Chad Coss as he tries to take his team to the next level.

WEST GREENE - Over the last two seasons, West Greene has combined to go 14-8, 10-4 while making the first round of the WPIAL Class A playoffs. However, the story has ended the same in each of those seasons with the Pioneers being knocked out in the first round by Rochester including a 52-14 loss a year ago.

The success has ushered in a new era of Pioneer football after the team made zero playoff appearances from 1994-2015. With the hiring of head coach Brian Hanson in March, the Pioneers will continue to build on the success they have seen over the past several seasons.

The Pioneers offense will once again be led by senior quarterback Gavin Scott and senior running back Ben Jackson. Jackson was a force for the West Green offense rushing for 1541 yards and 26 touchdowns in just nine games. He became the sixth running back in school history to pass the 4,000 career rushing yards mark.

While Jackson was putting up big numbers, Scott quietly had a strong season going 35-82 and throwing for 603 yards and four touchdowns for the Pioneers. Jackson and Scott will both be key this season if the Pioneers want to make their third straight WPI-AL Class A Playoff appearance.

MAPLETOWN - The Mapletown Maples have been dealing with one of the biggest obstacles in football over the last several seasons – numbers. Entering the 2018 season, the Maples had a total of 18 players and finished 0-10, 0-7, including a week one forfeit due to injuries. The 2018 season also ushered in an era of Mapletown football where they were without star running back Dylan Rush. Junior Zack Greene took over and will once again look to lead the Maples in the back field. Greene was the team's leading rusher a year ago running for just over 500 yards.

However, one of the biggest determining factors to the Maples success will be the growth of sophomore quarter back Max Vanta. In his second year as a starter Vanta is looking to grow from last year's playing experience.

JEFFERSON-MORGAN - Jefferson-Morgan suffered two big losses entering the 2019 season when they loss senior quarterback Jacob Broadwater and senior running back Justin Maddich to graduation. Now, they head into 2019 with a young team ready to take-off.

Replacing Broadwater under center will be sophomore quarterback Colt Flower. Flower appeared in just three games during his freshman year and didn't complete a pass. Broadwater had led the Rockets in each of the two previous seasons and averaged 24.8 yards per game during his senior year.

The Rockets backfield will look different as well with a combination of two juniors and four sophomores vying for the position. Jonathan Wolfe saw the most action of the returners last season rushing for 231 yards and five touchdowns on 44 carries.

With all of the change, head coach Aaron Giorgi has his work cut out for him as he leads the next generation of Rockets as they try to get back to their winning ways.

CARMICHAELS - The Carmichaels football team is looking for many of its young stars to step up in 2019 after losing a group of 11 seniors to graduation, including seven from the offensive line. It will be up to the Mighty Mikes back field to run the offense and get Carmichaels back to glory.

Leading the charge will be senior quarterback Caleb Gallagher. Gallagher led his team to a record of 2-7, 1-6 and is looking to grow and mature into the veteran leader that Carmichaels is searching for.

Gallagher will look to get most of the reps in 2019 and the senior will try to help Carmichaels improve from last season. With some top upperclassman at the teams skill positions, Gallagher will have help in leading the Mighty Mikes

Gallagher will have help with a few of his fellow seniors manning the skill positions. Senior Damien Palvi will be a top target for Gallagher this season while fellow senior Michael Robinson will get a majority of the carries out of the backfield.

Cool at School-world of fun is being offered by Eva K. Bowlby library with their "Universe of Stories" program. During July, the community was invited to participate in several unique activities. The library offered "Out of this World Cupcakes" and "A Universe of Wildlife" events to both children and adults. The events were free of charge and hands-on way of learning new information.

"Out of this World Cupcakes" allowed all ages to decorate cupcakes in galactic and cosmic themes. Each participant decorated two cupcakes. They chose one to be judged and one to take home or eat on the spot. All the supplies were provided for the participants.

The cupcakes were judged in two categories: adult and children. Two winners were selected in each category. There were around eight children competing and between ten and fifteen adults. Winners of the children's category were Autumn Cumberledge and Lilly Somerville. Adult winners were Christy Cumberledge and Jayme McCauley.

Megan Ealy, Youth Services Director from Eva K. Bowlby library, explained that there is an on-going cooking club for adults at the library. Lately the library has noticed interest among the children, especially in the idea of "cupcake wars". Megan says the children thought it would be "really fun" to decorate "space theme" cupcakes and so the event was created.

The library used to hold an annual event similar to "Universe of Wildlife" but had stopped. The program was reinvigorated when the new Game Warden, Christopher Bence, contacted the library's Public Relations Representative Kathy Douglas. Christopher became the new Game Warden in February and part of the position involves educating the public on wildlife safety.

Officer Bence visited the library and gave a speech on unusual wildlife in southwestern southwestern Pennsylvania. He taught the crowd about how to handle animals and to respect wildlife. He brought a variety of pelts with him for the group to inspect; the group was able to look at pelts of coyotes, skunks and badgers to learn about wildlife identification. They were able to see a bear claw and an owl skull. The "Universe of Wildlife" was very exciting for all who attended, which included about 40 children, adults, and a group of special needs adults.

A world of possibility is open to all who enter the library. You can jump into a good book or meet up with friends to learn a new recipe. With the addition of the "Universe of Stories" program, children and adults alike can learn new experiences in a fun, hands-on format.

by Matthew Cumberledge

-Going Greene-

THE STORY OF AN AGED INSTITUTION

ust before the start of the Civil War, legislation was passed in Pennsylvania and many other states throughout the country for each county to establish houses for the care and support of the poor. These houses often started out as converted family homes, usually beginning small and expanding over time.

In 1861, the county of Greene acquired a large farm in western Franklin Township upon which stood a 12-room farmhouse built in 1857 by the Rinehart family. The structure was a large Georgian Revival with a center hall and finely decorated rooms, an extravagant home for the time. This home and farm was to be the site of the Greene County poorhouse. It didn't take long for construction of a new wing to begin.

The original house was used as a residence for the steward of the poorhouse, and the new two story wing, expanding straight out of the rear elevation of the house contained a long hallway with ten rooms running along the hall on the first floor, and an identical configuration on the second. Early in 1862, the county approved measures to install a new public roadway that would run in front of the facility. This roadway became Rt. 21, later be known as Old 21, and is now Rolling Meadows Road.

Issac Pipes was the first inmate to live in the facility, having been admitted on the 2nd of June 1862. Pipes was 40 years old, and formerly resided in Franklin Township. The records indicate that he had never held a job or an occupation of any sort, and his reason for admission was "crippled".

Throughout the duration of the year, 83 other souls would call the Greene County Poorhouse "home". Among the various reasons for admission to the poorhouse is a sundry list including feeble minded, insane, convulsions, blind, inbred, old and demented. Poor, or impoverished, are among the least common reasons for people to be at the poorhouse in the 19th century. Like other similar institutions, the Greene County poorhouse served a purpose more like an asylum than a home for those who were impoverished.

Records and newspaper accounts indicate that things were rough in the early days. Overcrowding was an early issue and the attic was converted into dormitory space to accommodate the overflow from the twenty dormitory rooms. The steward oversaw operations of the farm, keeping the facility self sufficient, raising livestock, growing crops and tending to the maintenance of the 32 room building.

In 1881, a lengthy article written by a Mr. Ourt about poorhouses and almshouses from across the country was featured in Atlantic Monthly criticizing the living conditions of the Greene County poorhouse, and that prompted construction of a new wing in 1886. The new wing contained twelve new dorm rooms and a bathroom facility on each floor, and a basement of a similar layout. When the new wing was constructed, the 1861 wing was reconfigured, and five of the rooms on the first floor were converted to a large dining facility. This brought the total number of dorm rooms in the building to 38, for a total of 50 rooms in the facility, including the rooms in the steward's home.

During this time period a new steward came to the facility: William B. Cage, by many accounts a cruel and sadistic man. The Waynesburg Republican published several articles about him in the late 1880's and early 1890's. A very concise report appeared in 1890 that detailed many of his inhumane treatments. He was known to use the food set aside for the residents to throw lavish parties in the "front of the house" – or the stewards residence – while leaving only scraps and leftovers for the inmates, he was accused of chaining individuals up in the basement rooms of the newest wing and allowing them to starve as punishment for minor infractions, and forcing the residents to bath in the creek behind the poorhouse in the icy cold winter months. He was known to have a cane with which he commonly beat the residents. It was even reported that Cage staffed the kitchen with a head cook who was blind, and that as a result the food consumed by the inmates was generally undercooked, and filled with flies.

The 1890 article contained several firsthand accounts by the inmates of the poorhouse detailing multiple incidents. Interestingly enough, all of the inmates who made these reports disappeared from the records. Whether they were sent away, moved on elsewhere, or permanently silenced by Mr. Cage is uncertain. When the knowledge became public, Mr. Cage was removed from the facility and returned to private life, dying in 1914 at the age of 78.

By the early 1900's a new kitchen was constructed with an attached bake house, bringing the size of the facility to 52 rooms. The new kitchen was dedicated for the use of the inmates, and only the steward and his family then used the old kitchen.

The 1900's brought a renewed sense of peace and happiness to the poorhouse and with the removal of Cage, new stewards were hired and living conditions improved. There are letters archived from inmates who were transferred to other institutions throughout the state, begging to return to the kind treatment they had grown accustomed to in the Greene County poorhouse, or as it was then called "The Green Hills Farm."

In the early 1960's the old poorfarm had morphed into a retirement home for the aged of the Community; it was soon replaced by the Curry Home built across the road. The old house and grounds of the farm sat vacant for a few years before being taken on by the Greene County Historical Society in 1971, where they began to operate a local history museum that is still in existence.

BATTLE OF CHANCELLORSVILLE AND ITS RELICS

he Battle of Chancellorsville was fought from April 30th to May 6th 1863, in Chancellorsville, Spotsylvania County, Virginia. It was a significant victory for Confederate General Robert E. Lee, who divided his army in the face of a much larger union force. Stonewall Jackson was injured during a surprise attack against the Union Army's right flank that resulted in the amputation of his left arm. As a result of his injuries, he contracted pneumonia and died on May 10th 1863.

The Chancellorsville Campaign began with the crossing of the Rappahannock River by the Union army on the morning of April 27th 1863, and the most fierce fighting, second only to the Battle of Gettysburg, took place on May 3rd as Confederate General Robert E. Lee launched multiple attacks on the Union positions in Chancellorsville.

Though the Confederate forces would hail the cries of victory that day, and Chancellorsville would go on to be known as Lee's "perfect" battle, the tides of war would change for an overall victory of the Union Army at the end of the war.

The artifact from the GCHS Collection this month is a recent acquisition, and was found at the site of Confederate camps at the Chancellorsville battlefield and donated to the musuem by Mr. Walter Seal.

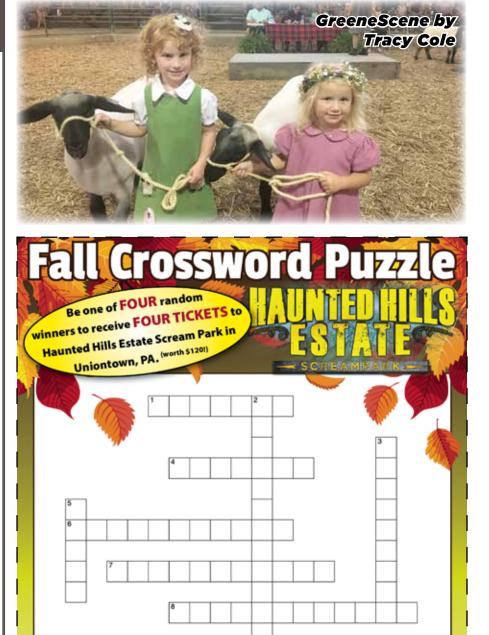

This rough, hand forged iron "grill" was used in the camps by the Confederate Army to cook on and prepare their meals. It could very well have been used to prepare the last meal for some poor soul who was one of the great numbers who lost their lives at Chancellorsville.

The Civil War was a dark and bloody conflict, and it is easy beyond measure to forget the human aspect of both sides of the War when one is reading the hard facts of battles fought and won. Artifacts like this, that show what life was like in camp bring the human affect back to us all. Seeing how the men and, yes, even the women on the battlefields lived outside of fighting is something we can all relate to.

Please come out and visit us at the Greene County Historical Society, Tuesday through Saturday, 10AM to 3PM to view this artifact and the rest of our Civil War Collection. We maintain a local history museum at the site of the Former Greene County Poor House. Our building contains 52 rooms, most of which are open to the public, that showcase artifacts from all epochs of history, both local and national.
